How Messianic Prophecy Works (A Messianic Jewish perspective)

Chapters 44 and 45 in the book of Isaiah were written around the year 700 BCE. Isaiah prophesied and mentioned Cyrus by name. He prophesied that Cyrus would allow Israel to rebuild Jerusalem and the Temple. When the prophecy was written, Jerusalem and the Temple still stood fast and Cyrus was not yet born. Only over 100 years later, in the year 586 BCE, Jerusalem was conquered and destroyed by the Babylonians. Later, when the Persians conquered Babylon, Cyrus, king of Persia, issued a decree to rebuild the city and the Temple. All this happened nearly 160 years after Isaiah made his prophecy. In the same way, the Old Testament also contains future prophecies about the Messiah, His identity and nature so that we can recognize Him. Here's a quick overview of a few of the prophecies about the Messiah concerning His identity, according to the prophecies of the Old Testament alone.

The Messiah's ancestry According to 2 Samuel 7 and 1 Chronicles 17, the Messiah must be a descendant of David. Indeed, Jesus's mother comes from the House of David. By the way, these prophecies were given to the people of Israel in order for them to examine each "candidate" according to these criteria.

Where will the Messiah be born? Micah 5 predicts that the Messiah will be born in Bethlehem, where Jesus was born.

When will the Messiah be born? Daniel 9 predicts that the Messiah will come before the destruction of the second Temple, and that in the year 32 CE He will be sentenced to a violent death. Indeed, Jesus was crucified on 14 Nissan in the year 32 CE.

The nature of the Messiah's birth Like many of the heroes in the Bible, who were supernaturally born by barren women, Isaiah prophesied in chapter 7 that the birth of the Messiah would be supernatural, from a virgin maiden. The New Testament describes Yeshua's (Jesus) birth from his mother Miriam (Mary), who was a virgin maiden.

What will be the nature of the Messiah? According to Daniel 7, Isaiah 9 and Zechariah 12, the nature of the Messiah will be like the nature of God Himself: The embodiment of God to mankind. And indeed, the New Testament refers to Jesus as the "Son of God", one with God and the embodiment of God.

Where will the Messiah live? According to the Zechariah 9, the Messiah is to enter Jerusalem riding on a donkey. This teaches us two things: First, the Messiah won't be some well-born famous rabbi who has millions. Second, he will live in the land of Israel, as he will be riding into Jerusalem on a donkey's back. Merely for the sake of comparison: Chabad's "King Messiah", the Lubavitcher Rebbe, whose yellow posters are plastered on every street corner, was not only not born in Bethlehem, but never even set foot in either Jerusalem or in Israel. Unlike him, Jesus, who was born and raised here in Israel, did enter Jerusalem riding on a donkey.

What will He do? According to Isaiah chapter 35 as well as other prophets in the Old Testament, the Messiah will cure incurable diseases, open the eyes of the blind, heal the disabled, cleanse the lepers, open the ears of the deaf, unbind the tongues of the mute, exorcise demons and even resurrect the dead. And indeed, Jesus cured countless people, exorcised evil spirits and demons and even resurrected the dead.

By the way, the REALLY interesting part is that even the rabbis in the Talmud admitted to the supernatural powers demonstrated by Jesus and His disciples. However, according to them, this was achieved through satanic magical powers. See, for example, what Rabbi Daniel Asor had to say: "Jesus was a false prophet, for he acted only through sorcery. He himself is the embodiment of Satanism." Truth be told, as early as during the time of Jesus, the rabbis accused Him of performing his supernatural miracles by the power of Satan and in his name. However, Jesus easily refuted their claims when He answered them: "Every kingdom divided against itself is laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. And if Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself." [Matthew 12:25-26]

The prophesied response of the people of Israel and the Gentiles According to Isaiah chapter 53 and Psalm 22, the Messiah will be rejected by His own people as they degrade Him and lead Him to His death. And what about the Gentiles? The book of Jonah makes it clear: The God of our fathers doesn't belong or is limited only to the nation of Israel, as taught by Rabbinic Halacha. Rather, He loves all of his creation. Yes, even the Gentiles.

Just like rabbis nowadays, Jonah the prophet had difficulties accepting this message as well. And indeed, just as God promised Abraham, that from his seed will come a blessing to all Gentiles and in accordance with Psalm 118, the Messiah will be as the stone that the builders rejected, but God will choose that stone of all others to become the cornerstone: The main foundation stone, through which God will build and send out the blessing He promised to all other nations around the world. Since Jesus's time to this day, millions of Christians believe in the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob! Thanks to whom? To the rabbis? No. To Jesus, of course.

What about His death? And the purpose for which He came? According to Psalm 22, Isaiah 53 and Zechariah 12, we, the people of Israel, will pierce Him and lead Him to His death by crucifixion, without realizing that we've actually pierced the Messiah. But in His grace, God will use that in order to inflict our sins and trespasses upon Him. And indeed, Jesus was crucified as a sacrifice in order to atone for our sins.

These were a few examples out of hundreds of prophecies and parallels in the Bible regarding the Messiah's character, nature and identity. You can learn more about the prophecies in our website (One For Israel). However, we leave you with a challenge: Stop and think for a moment.

Statistically speaking, the probability that these are coincidences, luck or self-fulfilling prophecies is outright impossible. For that matter, let us focus on only three prophetic characteristics in the Messiah's identity:

- He will be Jewish, He will be born in Bethlehem and He will die in the year 32 AD.

Even if we were to ignore the other prophecies for a moment and focus on those alone, we would be left with maybe a handful of candidates. Now, the ball is in your court. Forget traditions, ceremonies, or any other religious rituals that aim to impress God. You have no need for some rabbi to think and decide for you. God created you with a mind and a healthy measure of logic so that you can investigate the prophecies of our Bible for yourselves. After all, up there, no rabbi (or priest) will be around to hold your hand. Up there, it's just between you and God.

At Flight 93 Memorial and Quecreek Mine
Flight 93

On Tuesday morning, September 11, 2001, the U.S. came under attack when four commercial airliners were hijacked and used to strike targets on the ground. Nearly 3,000 people tragically lost their lives. Because of the actions of the 40 passengers and crew aboard one of the planes, Flight 93, the attack on the U.S. Capitol was thwarted. With the new visitors center this is an emotional experience. This is all free to the public.

Quecreek Mine

We invite you to come visit the rescue site where you can walk right up to the rescue shaft where the miners emerged from the dark, cold mine 240 feet below after 77 hours of frigid darkness. You will be greeted by the 7 foot tall bronze statue of a coal miner at the top of the walkway into the rescue site. Hear the story of the miracle from people personally involved in the rescue. Touch the rescue capsule and try to imagine how it would feel to squeeze into it with your strength nearly gone. This has a $7.00 fee to enter the visitors center all money is used to expand the center. The Visitors center has a film of the farmer describing the day's events from the first person that was doing surveying on his property to locate the shaft till the end when all 9 were rescued. There are also recorded voices of the miners when they hit water.
